Seven couples kiss on the steps of the First Baptist Church in Star City, Ark., after being remarried in a mass ceremony yesterday. The couples were married by the Rev. Roy Moore, father of two of the brides. The brides were given in marriag to husbands by their oldest sons, who ranged in age from 4 to 16. The couples remarried to comply with a 1941 Arkansas law. The "legal" weddings were necessary in order to benefit from other laws. (AP Wirephoto)

Hardcastle Risks Criticism To Gain Vote-Ammunition

"He who fights and runs away May live to fight another day."

This old-time jingle does not quite describe the position of Golden Gate Director Tom Hardcastle of Novato regarding the recent squabble over free insurance for directors. But it has a certain amount of pertinence.

Hardcastle declined the free insurance which was condemned by a Marin Grand Jury. It was popularly thought that he was a key figure in a revolt against it led by Director Stephen C. Leonoudakis, San Francisco attorney. But at last Friday's meeting he voted for its continuance.

He had reasons based on the old theory that sometimes it pays to lose one battle for the sake of winning a campaign.

Hardcastle may come in for some criticism because he didn't carry on the fight. Actually it was a fight he never entered actively.

Before Friday's vote he made a statement in which some personal details came out-that he didn't feel he needed the insurance, especially the health insurance which paralleled coverage he has in another capacity, likewise that he initially wished to keep his refusal private. Also, he'd found no illegality about the insurance.

But his most important point was that the whole thing represented only a trivial detail in the overall bridge operation. This is true though morals enter.

The cost of the insurance isn't much.

Directors in many instances feel that it is a reasonable supplementation of a $25 fee only half that paid other similar bodies. However, Director Leland S. Murphy of Inverness was among those who will pay the premiums themselves.

"I am not critical of the board," said Hardcastle. That was a politic remark, and it won some gratitude he may find handy in a close vote.

Without reading Hardcastle's mind it seems a fair guess that initially he considered the insurance issue one of several worth going to bat on, but as he sized things up he wondered.

He is trying to win friends and influence people rather than get a name as rabble-rouser, for very practical reasons. With passage of time he has found many issues on which he may achieve gains for Marin users of the Golden Gate Bridge provided he has support among his fellow-directors. By letting one petty but embarrassing matter drop, he has gained much ammunition for some worth-while battles to come.

This is not a dramatic, heroic way to proceed but it makes a lot of sense under the circumstances. It took much more courage for Hardcastle to risk thoughtless criticism from his supporters than it would have taken to win headlines with a big squabble over a small issue.

We're for him and wish him well on his delicate, complicated program of making the bridge serve us all bettera program which has already scored marked successes.

The season is upon us. Time to pack something in the car or station wagon and head for the shady redwood glades of Taylor Park for a picnic or a cookout.

Roasting frankfurters over those dandy stone barbecues is about our speed. More and more are being built out there every year.

Simple cooking gives us more of a

Where else, we ask ourselves, can anyone buy so much contentment for 50 cents? In an age when everything seems more expensive, Taylor Park is still a

The feverish pace that has made Washington the top U.S. city in the development of mass transportation brochures already is producing beneficial results.

For one thing, it provides employment for a large number of artists. For another, it gives motorists something to read while they are waiting for traffic to become unjammed.

The latest brochure to come to my attention takes the form of a report to President Kennedy from O. Roy Chalk, head of the local transit company and leading builder of air castles.

Seven Big Crises For Kennedy Only Set Stage, It Seems

court spoke and Kennedy took WASHINGTON (A) - President Kennedy has had seven office: big crises since he entered the White House. Some he won, some he didn't. Two were with labor and industry. But they look like just temporary disturbances compared with the others in the tormented fields of race and communism where total solutions are a long way off.

Just five days from now Kennedy will have been President 21/2 years. He had no illusions about the future when he took office Jan. 20,

In his inaugural speech that day he said American problems would "not be finished in the first 1,000 days" or in the life of his administration.

HE WAS TALKING mainly about the problems ahead with Communism.

Nowhere in that inaugural did he mention the racial problem which would burst over him, if he foresaw it.

It had been gathering force ever since May 17, 1954, the day the Supreme Coure said unequal treatment of Negroes is unconstitutional.

Two things happened to Negroes between the time the

In sit-ins, freedom rides, picketing, entry to previously allwhite schools, and mass demonstrations. They're increasing the pressure. They know no matter how much they win, an end to discrimination in all its forms is still a dream. Kennedy's first crisis, invasion of Cuba by rebels with his backing April 17, 1961, was a disaster. He learned to be more careful. Crisis 2 on Aug. 15, the Berlin Wall, left little that could be done without risking war with Russia. Kennedy made out better with all the crises that followed-with the U. S. steel industry April 10, 1962, the test of wills with Mississippi governor Sept. 30, missiles in Cuba Oct. 22, the University of Alabama trouble with Wallace last month, and finally the railway strike due last week and now tided over to July 29.

Each of these has contributed to Kennedy's education. Yet as the crises multiply, each needs its own remedy often without good precedent.

"Uncle Ezra led the king of hearts," my aunt revealed. "When I followed with the three of hearts, he switched to the ace of diamonds.'

APPROVAL

I nodded approvingly. "And then he led the eight of diamonds with malice aforethought."

"Shameful," I muttered, but my heart wasn't in it. Uncle Ezra wanted to get the king of diamonds out of dummy before the jack of hearts became good for a trick, but he also wanted to discourage a finesse against the queen of diamonds.

PLAYS KING

"Naturally, Cousin Henry played the king of diamonds from dummy," Aunt Hepzibah resumed.

"He could still lead the ten of clubs from dummy and let it ride," I suggested.

"He thought Uncle Ezra had only two or three diamonds or that the queen might drop. So he ruffed a diamond with a high trump, drew three rounds of trumps and then led the queen of hearts."

"He'd have been home if Uncle Ezra had no more diamonds," I observed.

HAD TO RUFF

"But your uncle got out with the queen of diamonds, and Cousin Henry had to ruff. Then he led the king of clubs."

"You won the trick?"

"I knew the Bath Coup when you still needed help to take a bath." Aunt Hepzibah snapped. "I waited. And then I got two

FIREWORKS MAY START SOMETHING

Belvedere and Tiburon were treated to a dazzling display of fireworks last night and a new tradition may be born.

Sparked by Kirby Atterbury, owner of Caprice Restaurant, Tiburon merchants and the Tiburon Peninsula Chamber of Commerce cooperated to celebrate Fall of the Bastille Day, France's liveliest national holiday.

A large crowd lined the waterfront to watch the 45minute display which was set off from Elephant Rock over the waters of Racoon Straits. Occasionally they attempted to sing the Marseillaise but never quite made it all the way through.

The night was fog-free and many yachts sailed in to join the fun.

Big blow in the nightcap for the Braves was Joe Torre's two-run wind-blown double in the first inning.

Novatan Pitches Another No-Hitter

Danny Granucci, who pitches for the Reds in the Novato Little League, can't seem to shake a habit he's developed when he pitches against the Yankees.

Showing a consistency not even Detroit's Frank Lary can match, Danny tossed his second no-hitter at the Li'l Bombers with the bases loaded, while Friday evening and won 4-1. He walked four and the Reds doubles and John Brookman made one error. In seven games this season, Danny has allowed only 15 hits, but when he faces the Yankees he really becomes stingy. His record is not approached even by the fabled Lary, who has a career mark games have scored 52 runs. of 28-11 against the New York Yankees.

What Makes Our Sammys Run?

Each of us reacts one way or another to various stimuli. One form of incentive will not produce equal response from a group of heterogenous personalities. A carrot will bring ole dobber along to the barn, but Rover might not even deign to sniff at it before dozing off again.

Fortunately for me, I am blessed with a group of salesmen whose responses to similar stimuli are almost startlingly uniform. No two of them are alike in any conceivable respect, and yet, they'll all reach for the same three carrets: money, recognition, and the prospect of getting rid of at least one whip, even for a little while.

This is why we have surpassed every previous sales record, for one month since our start in business here in Marin County in August of 1954. The lure of sacks full of silver dollars quickly distributed and more quickly clacking in bulging pockets to local stores and bars (sarsaparilla, please!) kept up a heartening pace of sales throughout the month. We've passed out thousands, and, as long as our 'patient banker will get more from the Federal Reserve, we'll pass out thousands more.

When you see a couple of salesmen comparing notes and measuring stacks of cartwheels, you know there's a spirit of healthy competition, that, in turn produces more activity. Nobody wants to be low man on any totem pole, particularly with the pug-uglies on most such poles sitting on your head. The guy who was No. 16 last month can't help beaming a bit and offering condolences to five poor souls as he sits in No. 10 spot this month.

It's still too early to claim victory in the Hawaii and Jamaica sweepstakes, but we have a quiet confidence we made it. And, this will be the capper for our boys—the icing on the cake, as it were. For, this is their third big reason for extending themselves. This spaghetti-bender will be gone for at week at least, and there'll be one less whip to second-guess their activities. Then, when Zim goes to Jamaica, they figure they can out-maneuver me without too much effort.

Plot away, fellows! If you catch me asleep at the switch, I'll get my come-uppance from Doug Cowan. This prospect alone will force you to be especially nimble and quick, and while you're trying, you might just by accident, sell some cars.

So, spin the wheel again, chum, and come up with more contests! We'll take 'em in stride at Ames Ford and beat out competition again. The only popularity contest we're trying to win is with the good people of Marin not with our fellow dealers, still sniffing at the carrot and dozing away.

The pair were among seven Inmates who were surprised by guards May 20 in a counseling room at the prison. They were drinking a concoction fermented from oranges, bread and sugar cubes, prison authorities

PGSE is getting a refund-and passing it on to you!

Commission.

Who gets it? If you were a PG&E residential gas customer during May, 1963, you'll receive a refund in the form of a credit on your August bill. (If you've moved since May, your refund won't appear on your bill. Instead, we'll mail a check to the closing bill address you gave us.)

How much? We hate to keep you in suspense, but you'll have to wait and see your August bill. Under a plan authorized by the California Public Utilities Commission, refunds are based on the amount of natural gas used during the four months, February through May 1963. The more you used, the larger your refund.

Why a refund? Because we're getting one. The Federal Power Commission held we were charged too much by a supplier, El Paso Natural Gas Company. We're getting back $15,040,735.38—and passing every penny on to our 1.8 million natural gas customers.

How about commercial and industrial users? The majority of commercial customers will receive their refunds in the form of a credit on their August bill, determined in the same manner as for our residential customers. The larger commercial customers (those using more than 400,000 cubic feet of natural gas during February through May 1963) and all industrial customers will receive refund checks based on the amount of natural gas used between May 10, 1955 and December 31, 1957 in accordance with the plan authorized by the California Public Utilities

The finale will be held Tuesday night.

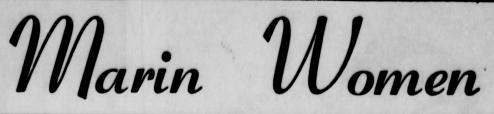

Miss Chapman's range of evening fashions also included pale toned metallics and brocades, white crepe columnshaped dresses with wide jewelled collars, a la Cleopatra, and tuxedo jackets topping long formals. White and black were a favorite combination. Typical was a group of twopartners, of white tucked chiffon blouses with French-cuff sleeves, and narrow black crepe skirts.

PAULINE TRIGERE, another individualist in the design world, showed numerous daytime dresses fitted through the waist, where most other designers preferred either a heightened waist or a low slung one. One of the French-born designers' new notions is the "cache cache" taken from a French term in the game of hide and seek. This is a rectangular stole in tweed or brocade that buttons up around the shoulders and half hides the head.

Other Trigere ideas included many smoky tones — one, a gray called mica, plenty of giant plaids in coats, swagger and swirl to coat shapes, and a number of sheer wools for evening dresses.
